

The Mottoe like Thy mind, that's much retire :
 With which when men of yore were once inspired,
 They had their Pleasures, and thought them selves most pure.
 Which made them glorious in a life obscure.
*W*ORLDS glorie is but like the lightning-flame.
 That soon goes out, as kindled is the same.
 And if jer. out it go it ought doth scale.
 Its lofty Cedar not the Shrub in dale.
 Then H, content thee with thy state and place.
 If thou seek glorie let it be by grace.

J. D. Camero Britannus